

Facts about the Death Penalty

- New death sentences in Texas have decreased significantly since peaking in 1999, when juries sentenced 48 people to death. In 2022, new death sentences remained in the single digits for the eighth year in a row. Two people were sentenced to death in Texas in 2022.
- In the three death penalty cases that have gone to trial in 2023, two resulted in death sentences after the defendants opted to represent themselves. In the third case, a Lubbock County jury rejected the death penalty for Hollis Daniels.
- Death sentences continue to be imposed disproportionately on people of color. Over the last five years, 72% of death sentences in Texas have been imposed on people of color.
- Only two counties in Texas (Harris and Smith) have imposed more than one death sentence in the last five years.
- Since 1973, 192 individuals who spent time on death row have been exonerated. This includes 16 people wrongfully convicted and sentenced to death in Texas, according to the Death Penalty Information Center.
- The State of Texas has executed 583 people since 1982, accounting for more than one-third of all executions nationwide since 1977.
- To date in 2023, the State of Texas has executed five people. The State carried out five executions total in 2022.
- Currently, there are 184 people on death row in Texas, including 7 women; this is the state's smallest death row population since 1985.
- In Texas, the cost of an average death penalty case is nearly three times higher than imprisoning someone for life without the possibility of parole.
- 23 states (most recently, Virginia) have abandoned the death penalty through legislation or judicial decisions. Governors in three other states have imposed a moratorium on executions.
- At least 112 countries have abolished the death penalty for all crimes. In 2022, the top five executing countries were, China, Iran, Egypt, Saudi Arabia, and the United States.

07/01/23